HARD FIGHT WITH A BIG EAGLE

Turble 10 Dispatching
the Bird.

What is believed to be the largest cagle ever killed within the broders of New Jersey was shot after a bard fight a few days ago in a swamp near Green Creek, in Cape May county. W. S. Eldridge, of that village, is the proud possessor of the bonor.

Eldridge, who was out in search of rabbits, came upon the big bird in a feating of a rabbit whele it had caught. Ravenous with hunger, the bird paid little attention to the bunter, plainty showing by its attitude that it meant fight. Haising his gun, Eldridge fired two loads of No. 8 shot into the body of the eagle, which only had the effect of angering it.

gun the bird dew at him and annk its talons into his clothing. Eldridge manged to best the bird off, but not before it had done considerable damage. The half of the bird off, but not before it had done considerable damage. The half ylightened gunner quickly threw several shells into his gun and again bird head, killing it. When he rashed home Eldridge measured the bird and found that it was 7 feet 11 inches from tip to the of its wings.
